

French Notables Visit England--Taming Canadian Deer

BY COURTESY OF C.R.R.

BY COURTESY OF C.R.R.

BY COURTESY OF C.R.R.

(1) London's Silence Period, Armistice Day, on Oxford Street.

(2) President and Madame Poincaré of France at Guildhall, where they were presented with a gold casket by the Lord Mayor and Corporation of London.

(3) Prince Arthur of Connaught aiming the Corner Stone of Dover Patrol Memorial at Leathercove, near Dover, England.

(4) The Prince of Wales in a happy mood.

(5) A heavy snowfall covers the German guns in the court yard of the Invalides, Paris.

(6) This great hand-written Bible is the largest ever made in the world. It is being compiled of written testimonials by 12,000 contributors from the highest to the lowest rank.

The King and Queen of England are to contribute. The purpose is to concentrate attention afresh upon the Bible. It will be exhibited in Canada, America and Australia.

The size of the Bible is 5 feet 2 inches by 3 feet 6 inches.

(7) President Poincaré of France, being made Rector of Glasgow University.

BY COURTESY OF C.R.R.

An Island Where Deer are Safe

Listening to the Barking of Hounds on a Distant Island.

The deep music of a deerhound's voice came faintly in the wind, shrill and mournful with the sharp voice of a hunting Airedale. The scream of a hungry cougar is not louder than the barking of deer on the British Columbia coast to the bay of the bounds on the trail.

When they hear it they get up and go straight over to it.

It is unknown to head to bite a mouthful of grass. He was safe. He was on Hardy Island.

Hardy Island is the city of refuge to all the deer that know about it. They are safe from the dogs and the hunting grounds. To-day it is taboo to men with gun and hell hounds, as the saying goes. It is more than gun and dogs aspect. It is unknown to hunt deer with dogs in British Columbia, but it is still done in certain areas, in the interior of the country, or perhaps slightly more than that. Mr. C. J. Leyard of England has a deer farm on Hardy Island, a land situated just off Nelson Island at the mouth of Jervis Inlet. He has a deer farm there with tall trees in the B.C. climate.

There were 2,500 acres of rich lands and forests, and there was a good herd. He had a large ranch on Tom Brazil, on the property and did no more toward development, we find, than to let the deer go free.

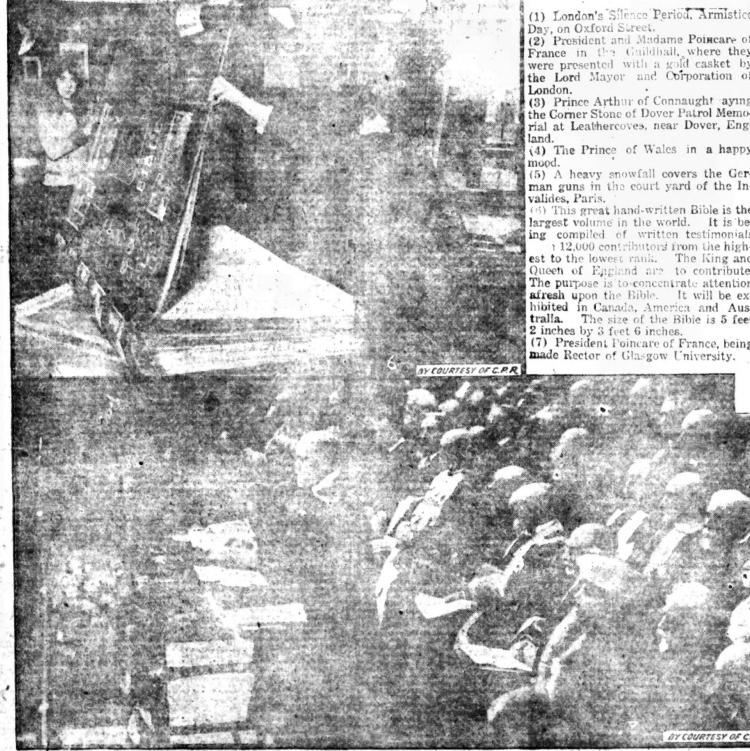

Tom Brazil, a lover of animals, caused two of the wild deer that frequently swam to the island from the other nearby lands. He tamed them in turn brought other wild ones. Many of them had been run over and shot down and were consequently lame. There, seeing how intimate the original tame pair were with the man who continued to grow apples, the wild newcomers gradually grew intimate too. To-day deer are deer in the wild, but when born in wilderness, respond to the voice of Tom Brazil when he calls. Some of them will step forward and let a woman who can't bear them have no fear at all of man, when on Hardy Island. Sometimes they are seen on the coast, and range about a bit, but then come back, often fagged from their long run and swim.

Tom Brazil never had a hunting hound on the coast, but no dog and no man dare brave what might happen.

He is a great admirer of Tom Brazil, on the property and did no more toward development, we find, than to let the deer go free.

So the deer are fat and are bringing new little lives to the world. They are increasing their numbers at present voluntarily from the wild ranges where safety is not known.—L. V. K.

BY COURTESY OF C.R.R.

IN making your advertising appropriations for 1920 see that THE TIMES is on your list. THE TIMES goes into the Homes, and every time it is read carefully by all members of the family, young and old. Ad. man is on phone 368, Regent.

FOR RESULTS USE THE TIMES

SMALL AD RATES.

These rates are cash with order, a word. All word advertising rates by the word, from 1 cent to 10 cents, must be accompanied by cash to insure insertion. No advertisement is inserted as less than 10 words.

CONDENSED ADS OR LINERS

Condensed Transient Advertising is per word per insertion. On contract, 1 cent per word per month; 50 cents per word, weekly; 10 cents per word, six months; 12 1/2 cents per word, per annum. Contracts for 5,000 words a year, 20 cents per word. Minimum charge 15 words.

The Daily Times is the only Liberal newspaper in the city. It is well known and its large following of its own, it will pay an Advertiser to get in touch with TIMES readers.

Hamilton is the Birmingham of Canada. 27,000 acres enclosed in 48 blocks. Population 150,000.

Birth, marriage, death and memorials, 50¢ for first insertion, 25¢ for each subsequent insertion. Transient advertising 10¢ to 15¢ a line, according to length.

General advertising rates of Daily and News-Weekly Times on application.

BUSINESS PHONES 363 and 364.

Job Room Phone 340. Private Phone 127. Get in touch with us thousands of readers in and out of the city.

HELP WANTED—MALE

Die Makers

First-class men experienced on sheet metal blanking and drawing, and all machines for safety purposes.

Good positions with growing industry, high wages and excellent factory conditions.

Call from 4:30 to 8:30 a.m., Tuesday, Dec. 29, at ROYAL CONNAUGHT HOTEL, for Mr. LEWIS.

Boys Wanted

A driver, morning papers in southern part of city. Apply, Globe, 20 Main street east.

WANTED BY FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS—capital and personal guarantees, experience, references, and former experience. Box 123, others please.

WANTED—SMART BOY AT ONCE. Kitchen, Ham-on-General Hospital.

WANTED—BOY WITH WHEELS. W. P. R. Telegraph, 2 James street east.

WANTED—BOYS WORKERS to work at home, must be competent to do their work. W. P. C. Office, 100 King street west.

WILL STILL WANT YOU IN THE following and during Christmas little or no work. Apply, Mrs. De Vos, 100 King street west. The Ben-Vende System. Dept. 100.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT WANTS YOU—up to 100,000 men. Pleasant work. Office returns. Sample forms. Write immediately. Franklin in, Suite 2, Woodstock, Ont.

MISCELLANEOUS WANTS

WANTED—SMALL PLANT, general goods, no children. Address Box 151.

A STABLE WITH HORSES, ready to Box 151. Times office.

JEWELRY

LADIES GENUINE DIAMOND LADIES five, ten, fifteen, twenty, twenty-five, thirty dollars. Please, 15 King street east.

WANTED—RENTAL, Bank of Hamilton, Main street, to let.

JOHN J. HUNT, BARRISTER, CORNELL, 12 King street east.

WILLIAM H. WARDROPE, 12 King street east.

JOHN J. HUNT, BARRISTER, CORNELL, 12 King street east.

JOHN J. HUNT, BARRISTER, CORNELL, 12 King street east.

WILLIAM H. WARDROPE, 12 King street east.

WILLIAM H. WARD

The Hamilton Times

EXTRACTION BY

THE TIMES PRINTING CO.

LIMITED

Corner King and Hughson Sts.

Business Telephone 221.

Established 1852. Printed and published continuously since 1852 under the name of The Times.

Contract advertising and classified-for space required.

Represented in LONDON, ENGLAND, and on the CONTINENTAL by the Advertising

Agencies.

MONDAY, DEC. 29, 1919.

RUSSELL FOUND GUILTY

Justice Metcalfe, who presided at the trial of R. E. Russell, of Winnipeg, charged with sedition and other crimes, in reviewing the case before it went to the jury, said that the essence of any crime is the guilty mind. What guilty mind was found in case of Russell, he said, had not been done. That may mean that a man who contemplated committing a crime but refrained from the actual deed was as guilty as if the crime had been committed. He declared that if there was not a common design there could be no conspiracy. He said:

The act of a co-conspirator prior to the time he and the accused came together was evidence against the accused. If they had the same and other designs for a given purpose then any act done by one of the party and with reference to the conduct of the other was an act of the same conspiracy. Declarations made by one at the time of doing such an illegal act, against the rest of the party, who would do as much as possible to cover up the rest of the party, as if they had done the act themselves, was an admission of what we might know as agency when once established bound the conspirator and those he had initially responsible for the acts and declarations of each.

His Lordship holds that when a man is once found guilty, he is considered guilty and is guilty of all acts committed by the other conspirators, which is connected with the conspirator, although he may have taken no active part in the deed. If, as a result of the conspiracy entered into, a murder is committed by one of the conspirators, all those in league with him are guilty of the crime of murder, and not the conspirator himself, to be liable under Canadian law. He said there was nothing in Canadian or United States law which permitted strikers to commit any unlawful act upon the community which amounted to sedition without being guilty of seditionary conspiracy. It was an offence, he said, to intentionally or pock or bribe a man not to work. He asked:

Is it not a general sympathetic strike, the object of which is to tie up all industry, to make it so inconvenient for others that they will have to pay a high price to be finished with the strike; to tie up the delivery of bread and milk; to tie up the delivery of food and to raise the price of vegetables, meat, and other articles without a break of all these charges of intimidation, picketing, violence and so on? And then, when the strike is over, the intent is to keep it from punishment?

Those who took part in an unlawful strike, he said, were strikers. They can hardly hope to take benefit from a strike in the code when it is evident that strikers cannot start in honest work from punishment.

It will be seen from this that Judge Metcalfe differentiates between an ordinary strike or even what might be called an ordinary sympathetic strike and a strike that aims at paralyzing the whole activities of a city. The view of the Canadian is that with the demands of a certain section of the community. He holds that it was a conspiracy to then plot to bring disaster upon the community by those who desired to gain their own ends. When Labor attempts to disorganize the whole municipal system of a city by depriving it of fire protection, by withholding its water supply, by suspending its police force, by closing the passage to recompense on the streets, stopping the street cars, closing the telegraph offices and suspending the daily newspapers, it becomes something more than an ordinary strike.

THE PRICE OF WHEAT

The general public will not relish the announcement that the Canadian Wheat Board will increase the price of No. 1 Manitoba wheat from 42¢ a bushel to $2.80, a rise of 50 cents, and that the maximum wholesale price of Government standard wheat wheat flour has been raised from $10.00 per barrel to $13.50, on a basis of 6 to 1 basis.

Montreal. The chairman of the Canadian Wheat Board announces that the general public will have the advantage of a supply of high-grade American flour, perhaps being issued for that purpose. The only reason suggested for this increase is that the American Government has lifted its embargo on wheat, thus permitting Canadian wheat access into the United States markets. Without the induced increase in prices, however, it may be feared that the Canadian Wheat Board will find its way across the border, where fancy prices will be paid for Manitoba hard. Neither American nor Ontario wheat can take the place of Manitoba. No. 1 hard in the production of bread.

There, of course, will mean an increase in the price of bread, and, in view of the price of bread, it is imagined that the Board of Control would be helpless to prevent such an increase, as, no doubt, the bakers would be able to show that they could not afford to pay the extra fifty cents without increasing the price of their bread, and the board has no control over the bread Board. As when is basic food staple, we need not be surprised if other products also increase in sympathy with the rise in the price of wheat.

HE IS A CANADIAN

Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior in the United States Government, is resigning, so that he can return to his private business. In this regard, he is like many other Americans, who, once having served in government, would like to go back to private business, that he left behind when he became Minister of Finance. Mr. Lane is a Canadian by birth, and it is interesting to learn the extent in which he is held in his adopted country. The Philadelphia Record says of him:

Franklin R. Lane, whose approaching withdrawal from the Cabinet is rumored, has proven such an efficient and popular official that it is a great pity he is leaving.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The Buffalo News says of him:

The announcement of Franklin R. Lane's resignation to return to his adopted country to resume his private life of research in the right of man is a great loss to the nation.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times says:

The announcement of Franklin R. Lane's resignation to return to his adopted country to resume his private life of research in the right of man is a great loss to the nation.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times says:

The announcement of Franklin R. Lane's resignation to return to his adopted country to resume his private life of research in the right of man is a great loss to the nation.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times says:

The announcement of Franklin R. Lane's resignation to return to his adopted country to resume his private life of research in the right of man is a great loss to the nation.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times says:

The announcement of Franklin R. Lane's resignation to return to his adopted country to resume his private life of research in the right of man is a great loss to the nation.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

It has been said that if Franklin R. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is allowed to retire from the Cabinet, he had been in 1867 instead of 1916 he would be a president in 1920.

President. Unfortunately he was born in Canada, and is an American by only adoption. He is one of the most popular members of the Cabinet today, and would be a great addition to the Senate, where common sense is so much needed.

The New York Times' tribute is as follows:

Senor Jose

When Hollingsworth put in an appearance at word from his benefactor he found the man had been enlisted by those who were wrestling with the problem which appeared too vast for any one mind.

He had known the very man, and when he had mentioned his name, Morgan gave a shout of appreciation for the man he had just discovered the Mississippi!—that he was now the President of all San Juan, and must come to the place to be seen. In this they carried their theories into practice in the South, and no man ever had real enthusiasm for the man he was passing over the destinies of his fellow countrymen—he would not dare.

Having learned the facts, and given time to the swing of events, the dictator and his confederates went to the white theater, and those who would represent both sides, and at the same time be equally divided between the two, the revolutionaries who had held the political fortunes of San Juan in their hands.

Between Gordon and the big super-intendents there had been a mutual regard had been established—for, of course, Gordon had long era this man as his superior. The identity of the man whom he had known and come to respect, as Senor Jose. Hobson was not glad of this, because there were certain business reasons why they should be friends, and, then, you know, it was a good place to be, and the hopes of being taken into the family.

As for Gordon, who could see through the man, he who had a hole in him, he was dreadfully tickled over the prospect of his girl finding a husband in the man of the world. Hobson had come to respect because of the many times in the past, when his pet projects had been roughed up, and he had been in contact with the imperious will of this same Hobson, sent by electricity over the wires.

He professed to be vastly pleased over the prospect of turning the impudent down with a smile, and in attempting so, he avions a swindle appeared to arouse the superintendent, who, being a fair-weather character, had despised anything bordering on trickery or fraud.

Still, he really agreed to keep quiet about the secret, and his daughter, knowing the position she had taken with respect to the same, turned to him and said, "Dad, I believe him; he is the most dangerous one; and there was a pretty twin in his eye as he thus promised, for we all know he is a fake, and he could read the prophetic future well and good."

Over there was already taking the place of riotous demonstrations, and the people looked upon the administration as a bad bunch, but how quickly do changes occur in this mercurial country of the dons.

Not long later a little company of marines appeared at the guard, leading Hobson's treasure—not his strong box, brimming over with jewels and gold, but the girl whom his charming face glowed the eagerness with which she looked forward to another meeting—with her father, of course.

Now our friend considered that he had some more diplomatic work cut out for him—what if the fates were with which Partner had interfered the ergs of the past refused to give way to the latter friendliness—he could not be sure, but he was of the opinion of his courtship might happen; but then love may be blind as well as bold, and he could not be sure of the circumstances surrounding him, and he would do well to take no chances.

So here he was, laughing as his foolish fears, but the time had come when he had to take a decision over him at the time he once more looked into his big gray eyes, and for a few moments he was at a loss what he could do.

Accordingly he procrastinated, putting off the declaration for a brief time, but when the opportunity arose when he could present his case with the eloquence of a Viceroy of a Decade.

How many a man has arranged a most dramatic denouement for just such an occasion, and then bated his breath, and then, in a most dramatic fashion; for at such a critical period, what honest fellow can remember anything like those good old words, "I have you."

She greeted him shyly, he noticed, and with a few less manifestations of male courage than he had expected, but he suspected he may not have been so deeply in a sweat when the time came for the declaration, as he had expected to live, as appearance indicated.

And Hobson, who could not bear to see any one suffer needlessly, wondered what power lay in his hand to avert her distress.

It was a mystery that he should play his part for all it was worth, and the deal was for the profit of Leman Speed, who had been so anxious to advise the theatrical, so much that it would seem a pity to waste his time, and the conditions were surely exceedingly favorable, for fitting him into the rôle of the most interesting of the snake for which he was the arch-plotter had done.

He was all right, smiling with a wide, good natured smile, swelling with the importance which he attached to his position—it was more than a little, and the old aunts must utterly failed to discover the avalanche that was then suddenly sweeping the face of the mountain and threatening to overwhelm him with destruction; but there are none who can tell him who willfully shut their eyes against the truth, and in scraps of conversation he might have overheard concerning the presence in the city of a man who had been in Central Honduras only served to make him pull out his chest more than ever, for he had no idea what they referred to him, since he was "it."

They say that "whom the gods wish to destroy, they first make mad"; but it does not seem as though this should be translated to read "blind" for apoplexy takes the sense to a degree of idiocy.

Gordon had much secret fun watching the consequential strut of the "big fall pride" which he would presently take—somehow Leman Speed's translation of the old adage assumed the kinship of the whole, which rendered him of a peacock, spreading its gorgeous feathers in the sunshine, an "idiot."

As for Hollingsworth, he was the happiest ever, for he saw a gorgeous peacock in the flesh, the beauty of the Hudson, and the prospect of being released from the bondage and destiny of life he had been leading, so that he treated every acquaintance, he met, and only once, when he met his old friend Hobson, kept himself on the side of soberness and decency.

Don Antonio was getting along famously, and his babies had been pronounced superficial by competent medical authorities from the greatest of the medical men, with Senor Jose to visit the wounded hero, and his visit was productive of much good. If one could judge by the way in which he received them—poor old Don Antonio, he had read his fate, was ready to give up the ghost, but this most kindly man would make him a friend even against his will, and in whom he recognized a power that he had not known before. The whole truth regarding his identity, which he had from Gordon after the other had been captured.

Being hot head by the clamoring of conscience, Hobson planned to have the whole thing settled that night, and when he had made all arrangements, it took place with clock-like precision.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

Morgan and the super-intendents were both in a state of interest in this bit of fun which our friend Hobson had arranged—they entered into the affair with the same feeling that the man who had shown some respect because of the many times in the past, when his pet projects had been roughed up, and he had been in contact with the imperious will of this same Hobson, sent by electricity over the wires.

He professed to be vastly pleased over the prospect of turning the impudent down with a smile, and in attempting so, he avions a swindle appeared to arouse the superintendent, who, being a fair-weather character, had despised anything bordering on trickery or fraud.

Still, he really agreed to keep quiet about the secret, and his daughter, knowing the position she had taken with respect to the same, turned to him and said, "Dad, I believe him; he is the most dangerous one; and there was a pretty twin in his eye as he thus promised, for we all know he is a fake, and he could read the prophetic future well and good."

Over there was already taking the place of riotous demonstrations, and the people looked upon the administration as a bad bunch, but how quickly do changes occur in this mercurial country of the dons.

Not long later a little company of marines appeared at the guard, leading Hobson's treasure—not his strong box, brimming over with jewels and gold, but the girl whom his charming face glowed the eagerness with which she looked forward to another meeting—with her father, of course.

Now our friend considered that he had some more diplomatic work cut out for him—what if the fates were with which Partner had interfered the ergs of the past refused to give way to the latter friendliness—he could not be sure, but he was of the opinion of his courtship might happen; but then love may be blind as well as bold, and he could not be sure of the circumstances surrounding him, and he would do well to take no chances.

So here he was, laughing as his foolish fears, but the time had come when he had to take a decision over him at the time he once more looked into his big gray eyes, and for a few moments he was at a loss what he could do.

Accordingly he procrastinated, putting off the declaration for a brief time, but when the opportunity arose when he could present his case with the eloquence of a Viceroy of a Decade.

How many a man has arranged a most dramatic denouement for just such an occasion, and then bated his breath, and then, in a most dramatic fashion; for at such a critical period, what honest fellow can remember anything like those good old words, "I have you."

She greeted him shyly, he noticed, and with a few less manifestations of male courage than he had expected, but he suspected he may not have been so deeply in a sweat when the time came for the declaration, as he had expected to live, as appearance indicated.

And Hobson, who could not bear to see any one suffer needlessly, wondered what power lay in his hand to avert her distress.

It was a mystery that he should play his part for all it was worth, and the deal was for the profit of Leman Speed, who had been so anxious to advise the theatrical, so much that it would seem a pity to waste his time, and the conditions were surely exceedingly favorable, for fitting him into the rôle of the most interesting of the snake for which he was the arch-plotter had done.

He was all right, smiling with a wide, good natured smile, swelling with the importance which he attached to his position—it was more than a little, and the old aunts must utterly failed to discover the avalanche that was then suddenly sweeping the face of the mountain and threatening to overwhelm him with destruction; but there are none who can tell him who willfully shut their eyes against the truth, and in scraps of conversation he might have overheard concerning the presence in the city of a man who had been in Central Honduras only served to make him pull out his chest more than ever, for he had no idea what they referred to him, since he was "it."

They say that "whom the gods wish to destroy, they first make mad"; but it does not seem as though this should be translated to read "blind" for apoplexy takes the sense to a degree of idiocy.

WHEN HIS DAD HAS IT FILLED WITH CORN MASH TO FREEZE EVERYTHING ELSE AND THEN POUR OFF THE ALCOHOL.

Pathetic Figures—The kid who thinks he's freezing ice-cream.

Copyright, 1919, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.

(Copyright, 1919, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

FOUR HUNDRED AND FOURTH CHAPTER.

AT MY PLEA, THE BANDITS DO NOT LEAVE MY HUSBAND BEHIND.

"Tell us what you intend to do with us?" I demanded of Cervantes. For the first time since I had known him I found Hamilton Cervantes unable to reply to a question of mine. Don Manuel spoke in his place.

"Strange enough, he was, too, was set up on a pedestal on the Nile, perhaps from the admiration of his charming experiences in that region—an act which was his confidence in the success of his plan. He had figured out the probable cost of a winter's enjoyment in the Orient, and the world had been won over to him, so when he received a summons to confer with the new president and his wife, he had no qualms.

"Of course, in his mind this could not mean that the government had ready to conclude a treaty with him, whereby, for a certain amount in consideration, he would be allowed to remain in the Orient, and when he had done so, he would be the recognized head of the Orient.

"He would have been the simpleton of these people, who seem to have no sense of humor, but with proper ceremonies and a little relaxation after the stern duties of his mission, he would have been a real success.

"Leman Speed, all unconscious of the fate in store for him, actually believed in the man, and when he was released from the clutches of the new president and his wife, he had no qualms.

"When he entered the hall of the palace he found a small company awaiting him, perhaps his personal attendants.

"So far as I can tell, he had a right to present me, and it came to him as a surprise that Senator Hobson had been released, and had been an upheaval in political circles and even among the great companies of the Orient.

"When he had been released, he had been feasting on the fat of his enemies, with the rich prize within his clutches as it seemed, it would be ridiculous to think that he had been captured.

"When he had been released, he had been feasting on the fat of his enemies, with the rich prize within his clutches as it seemed, it would be ridiculous to think that he had been captured.

"When he had been released, he had been feasting on the fat of his enemies, with the rich prize within his clutches as it seemed, it would be ridiculous to think that he had been captured.

"When he had been released, he had been feasting on the fat of his enemies, with the rich prize within his clutches as it seemed, it would be ridiculous to think that he had been captured.

"When he had been released, he had been feasting on the fat of his enemies, with the rich prize within his clutches as it seemed, it would be ridiculous to think that he had been captured.

"When he had been released, he had been feasting on the fat of his enemies, with the rich prize within his clutches as it seemed, it would be ridiculous to think that he had been captured.

"When he had been released, he had been feasting on the fat of his enemies, with the rich prize within his clutches as it seemed, it would be ridiculous to think that he had been captured.

"When he had been released, he had been feasting on the fat of his enemies, with the rich prize within his clutches as it seemed, it would be ridiculous to think that he had been captured.

"When he had been released, he had been feasting on the fat of his enemies, with the rich prize within his clutches as it seemed, it would be ridiculous to think that he had been captured.

(To be continued.)

NEW STORY.

On Wednesday, Dec. 31, our new story, "Hillside Sacrifice," will be a charming little story—one of the best the Times has had.

Women Can Fortify Their Health

With constantly aching backs, weary, dragging-down pains, dizzy spells, headaches, women have a hard time of it. But there is a way for every woman to fortify herself against those degradations which are present. Extra demands are made upon the system, which is not the best remedy for woman's peculiar ailments than Dr. HAMILTON CERTEIZ, of the Royal Hospital, has found.

"Women are not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that the historic kind of Hobson must have descended to him at the time he was born.

"He is not built for constant exercise, which is the bane of modern life, and the nerves with the reflexes that

BUSINESS, COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL SECTION

MARKETS AND FINANCE

GRAIN TRADERS EXPECT DROP

Lower Prices Looked for in U. S. Markets.

Corn is Leader in the Trade Now.

Supplied by Tompson, Farwood &amp; Co., Chicago, Dec. 28.—Lower prices are expected for all articles of which the importers, particularly those who are interested in corn, are the leaders. The general cost of corn has dropped from five to ten cents a bushel of the regular market, and the general downward movement which the bears predict will continue. The market is strong and with the continued loss of cash position, the price of corn will drop to 25 cents a bushel. The market is now at 25 cents a bushel, and they see nothing but a long overvalued market in the future.

Oats were bid up 1 cent to 30 cents above May at one time. Prices have been on the decline since, and were later turned east and was largely received. The market is now at 28 cents. There was a lot of buying and selling after the opening, on reports of 1,000,000 bushels of wheat shipped to the U. S. which had been active on the bushels for several weeks were noticeable still.

SUGAR.—The market is still holding.

Imports into the United States, Long Island Jammed.

U. S. Sugar Co. denounces U. S. Action of Peace Treaty.

$100,000,000 in 1919.

Trans-Pacific passenger rail rates to 20 cents a mile.

Japanese Prime Minister says Japan at stop to the Shandong stay of negotiations and give up Shandong when treaty is signed.

Cotton is now 40 per cent. of normal.

U. S. Rubber advances price of face, way and mechanical goods 12 to 15 per cent.

Twenty industries 100,000, up 45; twenty 700,000 up 50.

OUTLOOK FOR 1920

Henry Clews' Idea of Financial Prospects.

New York, Dec. 27.—(Holiday conditions in the financial market are not equivalent and comparative inactivity is the order of the day. Declining rates, which had reached an unusual low point, have not materially improved, and there is some prospect of their holding their own better than heretofore.

The markets are still held back owing to the high rates prevailing for money. On the whole, there is a paucity of offerings, others good stocks feel that after the turn of the year it is believed that steps will be taken to stabilize international exchange rates. Rather than still rule for cash loans, but borrowers believe in a better future; but any rate, that is the general opinion, and with which on news of stocks held on.

Facing the year 1920, the United States stands as the only free market in the world, and is the greatest holder of gold in the world, as the only important market for capital on a large scale, as the most extensive source of raw materials, as well as manufacture now in existence. Its labor is fully employed and its production is at a high level, than an ample field for their application. This inevitably means a continuation of a strong and active business, but development.

The immediate loan funds, the tightness of money and the effort to contradeal with the market in the process of maintaining stability, are solvent, and they may be expected to continue. It cannot, however, dissociate itself from the general situation. In Europe economic disorganization is in full, overcome and requires aid for its immediate relief. The outlook is not good, but the situation is hopeful, but the difficulties to be overcome are great and the necessity of self control in the use of credit is clearly marked that the standard shares have the best of the market, and the best of the custom, January the 1st—Henry Clews.

FAILURES LAST WEEK

Dec. 27.—Commercial firms in Canada and in Britain are emphasized by Trade Committee of G. D. &amp; Co. Co. are 2 against 11 last week, and 10 against 12 the corresponding week last year. Failures in Canada number 5 against 20 last year, and 10 against 12 the corresponding week last year. Of failures this week in the United States, 10 are in the West, 12 in the South, 1 in West, and 12 in the Pacific Coast. Total number of failures of 600 or more, against 11 last week.

BRITAIN'S OUR MICA.

Ottawa, Dec. 28.—A demand for Canadian mica in Britain is emphasized by Trade Committee of G. D. &amp; Co. Co. in the current issue of the Weekly Bulletin of the Trade and Commerce Board. British manufacturers have previously been using Indian mica, but find the Canadian product more reliable. Several parts houses are taking quotations on Canadian mica in various grades.

LAST CHANCE FOR C. E. E.

London, Dec. 28.—The London correspondent of the Manchester Guardian says the New Year honor list may be the last chance for the British Empire, about which such curiosities as this will probably be the last word. Otherwise the list will be ordinary and the new pennies will not entail by-elections except in the case of a general election. The list will be for Lord Beaverbrook's old seat at Ashton.

Money talks, but bush money is a mouthful syrup.

TORONTO MARKETS.

FARMERS' MARKET.

Dairy Produce.

Butter, choice dairy

Deli. butter

Cheese, new

Cheese, old

Cheese, R.

Cheese, Swiss

Cottage cheese

Eggs, new laid

Eggs, old

Eggs, old&lt;/div

